

Update: February Fifth 2010

The Kee Design Team has completed the frame and split in to groups for the front suspension and the rear axle.

Luke is attaching the Halo on to the frame.

The completed chassis of our car.

Nick cutting a piece of the tubing so the ends will butt against the curved tubing properly.

Nick grinding off the excess material on the welds.